GLEN ISLAND (BAY OF QUINTE), ONTARIO.

GLEN ISLAND

"The Isle of Rest"

BAY OF QUINTE,

Ontario, - - - - Canada.

THE Bay of Quinte is famed for its scenic beauty, its pure waters, its health-giving climate, its soft but invigorating breezes, its fine fishing, boating, etc.

Easy of access, being located on the great inland water-way of tourist travel east and west, it is attracting a rapidly increasing number of visitors each succeeding season from all parts of the continent.

The most popular resort in this beautiful Bay is Glen Island, nature's "Beauty Spot," and a regular port of call for the Bay and Lake Steamers.

Situated right in the heart of the bay, or bays—for the Bay of Quinte is a succession of bays from the throw off from Lake Ontario to the West, until it joins it again at its confluence with the St. Lawrence River to the East—the outlook is charming. The peculiar conformations of the shores, the many wooded points with glistening waters between, give the impression that a veritable sea of islands surrounds the beholder.

The island is well wooded, has a beautiful varied foliage, affording ample and grateful shade from the heat of the sun, and the surface is lawned and boulevarded with the care and attention bestowed upon a city's park.

The shore is a sand and pebble beach, and the water deepens so gently as to afford ideal bathing for children as well as the most timid of adult bathers.

Absolutely no pests like mosquitos, flies, etc., are ever encountered at the island, and the general natural environments are all that can be desired by the most fastidious.

AN OUTLOOK FROM THE ISLAND

AN AFTER DINNER REST.

GETTING READY FOR A SAIL.

A GOOD STORY.

ACCOMMODATION.

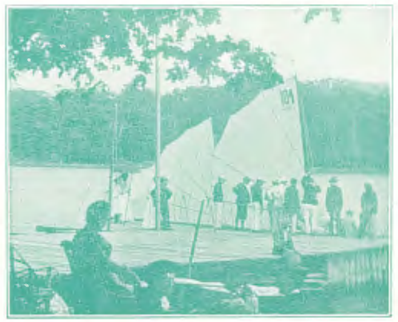
THE accommodation at Glen Island probably gives Patrons of this place more pleasure in its general arrangement of suites of rooms—to accommodate the number in Family or Party—enabling them at any time to enjoy the privacy and quiet rest of Home life—where they can swing in their hammocks, and dream the days away—or they can step out upon the green sward and take a hand in any of the different forms of amusement going on.

TENTING OUT.

NOTE.—Cottages for private housekeeping are provided for those who prefer to take their servants with them during the season's outing.

These cottages are furnished with everything essential except table linen and towelling. A refrigerator is connected with each and ice is supplied daily. Fresh pure country milk and cream, and all provisions, fresh fruits and vegetables are supplied at reasonable rates. A laundry is also maintained for the convenience of patrons generally.

A YACHTING PARTY.



PREPARING FOR THE RACE.

One popular form of amusement is "cruising parties." A jolly boat-load, with baskets of refreshments, starts out in any direction they fancy to explore the many points of interest the surrounding country contains. A ramble up to the "Lake on the Mountain Top," one of nature's curios that many have travelled thousands of miles to see on account of its situation and transparency of its water. So far all investigation has failed to disclose the mystery of its source or rise and exit. Or a sail up to the picturesque Town of Picton, where carriages can be obtained for a delightful ride to the Sand Hills and back. Or cruising through the Island bays in fishing parties or picnics. 'Tis needless to add all enjoy these outings.

BOATING.

THE Boating, Yachting, Canoeing, etc., is truly idealic and normally free from danger, refuge being always quickly obtainable and squalls are exceptional occurrences.

Yachts, steam and sail, row-boats, canoes, etc., are seen in profusion during the season, dotting the surface of the bay in every direction.

BATHING.

THE LITTLE FOLKS' HOUR.

The waters of the bay are exceptionally pure, and the temperature high enough during the season to allow of any length of time in bathing without danger of chilling. At the same time the bath is always invigorating. A fair surf can be had at some places, while warmth and quiet waters are obtainable at others.

A MAPLE TAFFY PULL.

A 50-POUND MASCO.

FISHING.

THE bay is celebrated for its gamey Black Bass and mighty Maskinonge, the choice game of the expert angler, while the Golden Perch are obtainable in quantity by every one who chooses to bait a hook and drop a line overboard, anywhere in the immediate vicinity of the Island.

A GIANT MASKINONGE.

CAPTURE OF A FIFTY-POUND FISH AT GLEN ISLAND, ONTARIO.

(Special Despatch to The Globe.)

Napanee, Aug. 24.—Mr. S. H. Covert and Mr. G. Brown, of Monateur Falls, N.Y., on Monday last while trolling at Glen Island, Ontario, succeeded in capturing a very fine maskinonge which tipped the scales at 51½ pounds. Mr. Covert for about 30 minutes had a very exciting time, as the fish put up a big fight, and realizing the difficulty of landing so large a fish in a small boat, it was finally towed to shore, where by means of a gaff hook it was successfully landed. There have been several maskinonge caught at this popular resort this season, but this is the largest fish and the most exciting capture of the season.

WHERE TO GO

For their Summer's Outing

Is a puzzle many worry over — until they go to Glen Island. After that they invariably return there.

Tourists generally know a good place when they see it—and the Management studies to please.

AMUSEMENTS.

While fishing, boating, canoeing, bathing and sketching occupy a large share of the time of patrons, yet golfing, tennis, card and dancing parties, and other amusements usual at summer resorts, maintain at the Island.

The balmy air, the freedom from severe storms, changes, annoying insects, etc., make the Island an ideal resort for those suffering from nervous prostration, exhaustion, hay fever, etc.

A fine well of mineral water on the Island and shower bath room for timid bathers.

THE MENU . . .

Under the guidance of a first-class cook, has given entire satisfaction, and the Management assures a continuance of this pleasing feature to a Season's Outing.

GUESSING AT THE WEIGHT.

"Glen Island"

'Tis well in passing to say a word about the little folk. Just here is where Glen Island excels. It is a veritable "paradise for children." There are absolutely no pests of any kind to annoy them. They can run bare-footed and hatless all over the island in safety, and their freedom only increases their health and good nature, just like it acts upon us "older children" when the pressure is lifted. There is no deep shore water for them to fall into, and they can bathe along the beach in safety. There is plenty of pure well water, and no form of malaria has ever been known in the locality.

We Delight in Giving Information.

Route to Island.

By all lines of Railroads reaching Rochester, N.Y., or Cape Vincent, N.Y., where steamer connection is made for Glen Island, by a delightful sail across the lake and down the St. Lawrence River. Also by Grand Trunk Railway and all other lines making a connection at any of the Bay of Quinte ports. Full information given on application—of how to come—the pleasantest trip. There is no difficulty in the way.
